CHARGE MATISE WITH MURDER

Slayer of Flannagan Placed In County Jail

WITNESS TELLS OF TILT

Says Auto Pursued Dead Man's Car Sunday

Michael Matise, held without bail for the fatal shooting of G. W. Flannagan, was taken to the county jail at Beaumont this afternoon, according to Constable H. F. Baker, in charge of the investigation of the shooting.

Following his preliminary hearing on the murder charge yesterday afternoon, Matise was remanded to the county jail, Harry Houseman, alleged to have been in the car with Matise previous to the shooting of Flannagan, and who was held as a material witness late Monday afternoon, was ordered released following the preliminary trial Monday afternoon.

Carl Batson, one of the eye-witnesses to the shooting, and who was in the car with Flannagan previous to the shooting, detailed how the car in which Matise was riding had followed Flannagan's car over a circuitous route Sunday afternoon.

"We turned purposely several times during the afternoon, in order to make sure if the car behind us was following, and found that it was apparently trailing ours," testified Batson.

Batson, a roomer at the same place as Flannagan, told that the dead man and Matise had had a tilt some time before the fatal shooting and recognized the circumstances leading up to the quarrel.

Tilt Over Girl

Batson further testified that one during the driving around Sunday afternoon, Flannagan eluded the pursuing car, but encountered it again. Driving in ahead of Flannagan's car, the car in which Matise was riding, according to Batson, stopped and Matise spoke to Flannagan.

"Are you man enough to go up to that girl and repeat what you have said?" Matise is credited with having asked Flannagan.

Batson stated that Flannagan said he was and when within a few feet of Matise an argument started relative to which car the two men would ride in to see the woman in question.

When questioned relative to Flannagan being armed, Batson said he did not know whether he was armed.

Local banks, real estate dealers and the K. C. S. railroad took up the morning's session of the equalization board of city commissioners deciding the tax valuations on Port Arthur property.

At noon when the board was adjourned, the Kansas City Southern was still being considered, with indications that it would be late this afternoon before the finish could be reached.

Officials and experts of the railroad spent a major part of the morning session in an effort to have their valuation reduced, contending that they should not be assessed on the same basis as the residence property in front of their right of way. The park in front of the depot here also came in for its share of discussion, the board officials maintaining that they could use the ground for no other purpose than a park, because of a clause in their deed specifying that utility for the land.

Because of the number yet to be accommodated before the board, Mayor J. P. Lozan stated that an other night session starting at 7:30 o'clock tonight, will be held for the accommodation of those who have not yet had a chance to come before the equalization body.

BALKAN WAR FLARES ANEW

Italo-Greek Incident Is Far From Settled

BELGRADE SUSPICIOUS

Look Askance on Italy's Continued Activities

ATHENS, Sept. 11.—Possibilities of a Balkan war are far from eradicated by the patched up program of the council of ambassadors for settlement of the Italo-Greek dispute in the opinion of semi-official observers here today.

Reports from Corfu that the Italians were continuing to land troops there and extend their fortifications inspired a crop of rumors that Italy will find new arguments to make permanent her occupation of the island.

Greeks Alarmed

The reports also caused Greek political circles to speculate regarding the attitude of Jugo-Slavia, according to Italian activities in Corfu.

Some Greek nationalists were even forecasting a new Balkan war, pointing to the already complicated political and diplomatic situation and the proof of intense racial hatreds as exhibited in the Italian-Jugo-Slav dispute over Fiume and the Italo-Greek crisis.

The situation is complicated further, it was asserted, by Albania's ambitions and the plots of the Montenegrin nationalists.

It was reported here today that Albanian bands on the Greco-Albanian frontier were being armed, while Belgrade messages said there was increasing tension throughout Serbia because of the Fiume and Corfu situation.

Local Shriners in charge of the marriage Wednesday have decreed that all solemnity shall be accorded the occasion and the gorgeous mid-way is to be hushed during the time of the ceremony. STOLEN CLOTHING ARE RECOVERED

Bear Label of Roos & Forst, Says Head

REQUISITION ASKED

Capture Is First in Connection With Arson Wave

Port Arthur's first arson suspect was gathered in Monday night at New Orleans when he called for two trunks of suits, alleged to have been stolen from the Roos & Forst clothing store here during an incendiary fire early Sunday morning.

The man being held in the Crescent City gave the name of Walter Carl Brown and demanded extradition papers to be procured before he could be brought back here, according to a telegram received here today.

In the series of firebug fires dating back some ten or twelve months, the man apprehended yesterday in the first suspect taken in connection with the fires which have done thousands of dollars worth of damage to stores in this city.

Description Obtained

Early Sunday morning fire broke out in the clothing store and a man was known to have bargained with a local transfer company to haul a trunk and suit case from the place to Beaumont.

Local police working on the case wired descriptions of the man and sent to surrounding towns and he was apprehended when he came after the baggage at the New Orleans depot.

Search of the trunk revealed several suits of clothing bearing the trademarks of the local clothiers, alleged to have been missing following the three-day fire, started Sunday morning.

Prisoner Unidentified

As soon as extradition papers are furnished the local police department, a man will be dispatched to New Orleans to return with the prisoner. According to police the man is as yet unidentified, and it is not known whether he is a local man.

Efforts were made to affect the thief's capture as soon as the robbery angle entered the case Sunday. Wires were sent out giving a description of the man wanted, from the description furnished by the expressman who hauled the two trunks from the Roos & Forst store to Beaumont.

The Retail Merchants' Association in an executive meeting yesterday considered and discussed the fire and robbery of the clothing store, but no action was taken on the matter.

Lumber Men to Seek Rate Readjustments

A meeting of all local lumber interests has been called to discuss proposed readjustments in rates on lumber.

The conference will be held in the Chamber of Commerce, with Frank Potts, traffic manager, officiating, tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

According to Potts, East Texas railroads are proposing readjustments on rates meaning increases in some points, and decreases in others. Local lumbermen will be called upon by Potts to express their opinion as to the proposals, it is understood.

Quake Fund

Port Arthur's quota announced by the Red Cross for relief of Japanese earthquake sufferers is $2700. Today, 11 days after the disaster, very little of it had been raised. Meantime suffering goes on apace. People are dying. Babies and children, lost from relatives and friends are crying for mothers they will never see again. Thousands of mothers are dead. Mothers in turn, distracted and torn by grief, are sobbing for their dead children. Fathers, breadwinners, are dead, injured or without means of providing for their families. Hardly a family but has had its ties broken by the disaster. And thousands of hungry sufferers who escaped the calamity and left their homes and all they have swept away continue to go hungry. A terrible picture.

"The more we can do to smile in proportion to the calamity," says the Red Cross.

Other cities already have exceeded their quotas.

An urgent appeal to Port Arthur people was voiced again today by the Port Arthur chapter of the Red Cross, handling subscriptions. "To be effective the quota must be raised at once," says the appeal. "Otherwise any amount of money will be too late."

Acknowledgments of subscriptions will be made in The News as received by Red Cross headquarters. Previously rendered (free will offering at News' second request):

ASKED TO LODGE RIVAL; SHE SUES

Wife Refuses to Agree To Husband's Proposal

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—When Mrs. Nellie Owens surprised her husband, William E. Owens, western representative of a New York furniture company, and another woman in a hotel in Indianapolis the husband rubbed his hands and exclaimed:

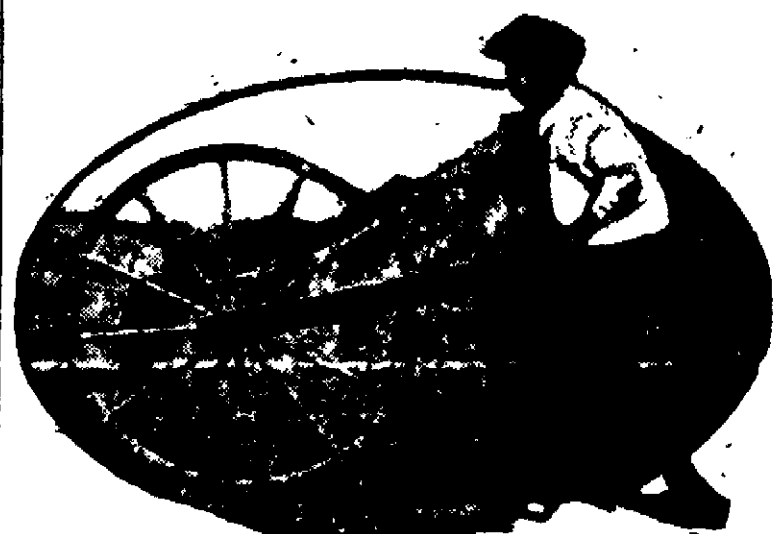

"Well, well, so you are here, Nellie? I must tell you that I am about to become a proud father. I hope it's a boy."

"I've always wanted a boy, you know. Don't you think that later we ought to bring this little girl and her child to live with us?"

Mrs. Owens reserved her answer. It was through a bill for divorce filed in the superior court that she informed her husband that she didn't care for his proposition.

The bill states that the couple was married in Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 8, 1910.

SEES TWO FRAMES IN LIFE OF 82 YEARS

THOMAS, Tenn., Sept. 11.—(Star)—Two years' difference.

Thomas Finch, 82 years old, who came to California about 40 years ago, saw his second railroad train at Truckee, Cal., today. He is making his home in "Hawthorne," Finch saw his first railroad train in 1881.

The aged miner left Kentucky in 1880 and has lived in the mountains since. He has seen more than 40 years. Four years ago he saw his first automobile, a Silver, and marvelled much.

Finch, a native of Kentucky, was a boy, however, I remember the train that I saw in 1881. I was about 23 years old.

Heroic Words on Tomb of Slayer

NORTH HAV, Ont., Sept. 11.—"Our Hero," the inscription on the tombstone of Leo Rogers, bandit, who was shot and killed from ambush after he had killed two provincial policemen, will remain as long as John Rogers, his father, has anything to say.

Rogers has defied an order of the city council that the two words be chiseled off the tombstone. Bishop Seidler of the Catholic diocese wrote a letter to Rogers advising him that the inscription would have to be removed or the tombstone could not remain in the cemetery.

DRY OFFICERS SEARCH FOR RUM—FIND DOG

VERNON, Texas, Sept. 11.—Inquisitive persons but their noses in something where they had no business near Vernon recently. They were traveling along the road leading north from Vernon.

Suddenly they stopped and saw a small group of men burying a dog in the sands on the banks of the Peace river.

Ab! bootleggers, exclaimed one. Notify the prohibition officers! another cried.

The officers were notified and rushed madly out to the scene, but alas! the bootleggers had fled and only the fresh dirt was noticeable on the "liquor grave."

"We missed our chance," one said. "But we can dig up the evidence and possibly catch the violators later."

Officers became grave diggers at once. Down and down the picks went in search of liquor.

Then there came a shock: the box was struck and pulled out of the grave. Yes, it was a box and heavy.

The second shock proved almost fatal to the grave diggers. When the lid was taken off, there was the body of "Snooky," a deceased pet dog of Dr. A. P. Howard. Not even the slightest odor of liquor prevailed.

WORLD COTTON CROP IS SHORT

Consumption Increased, Big Increase on 1932 Surplus

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Increased consumption together with a small surplus of stocks from last year may result in a world cotton shortage unless foreign cotton producing countries increase their output during the coming year, it was revealed today in government statistics covering a world's survey of cotton.

With a diminished surplus of 8,000,000 bales at the beginning of the cotton year, Aug. 1, and the yield of American cotton, more than one-half of the world's supply for the current year forecasted at 10,750,000 bales by the department of agriculture, over increasing consumption is what causes danger of temporary shortage.

Cotton experts here predict that consumption during the current year will jump to a much greater figure than last year when 20,950,000 bales were consumed, an increase of more than 9,000,000 bales over the previous year.

One cotton expert explained that heavy imports of the surplus stocks from last year may be a factor in creating a shortage. He declared the stocks "were uncomfortably low."

Stocks on hand at the beginning of the current year were 6,400,000 bales, the lowest figure in recent years, despite an increased production of nearly 3,000,000 bales.

The importance of increased foreign production during the present year is born out in the fact that the just year America's production increased 1,800,000 bales, while the combined increase of all other countries was only 2,700,000 bales.

Asserts Mother-in-Law Is Safe 2 Miles Away

YONKERS, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Judge Morris L. Rosenwasser held in Yonkers city court that two miles is a safe distance for a man to live from his mother-in-law. The judge was hearing the domestic troubles of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Reussell.

Mrs. Helen Rosenwasser, 18, charged that her husband, 20, boxed her ears. "It's too much mother-in-law," answered the husband. "Her mother is always meddling in our affairs."

"Does she live in the same house with you?" asked the judge.

"No."

"How far away?"

"Two miles," retorted Mrs. Rosenwasser.

"That's far enough," replied the judge. "You ought not to have much trouble with a mother-in-law that distance away."

WOMAN CHARGED IN U. S. LIQUOR RAID

PARIS, Texas, Sept. 11.—Four men and one woman were brought to this city Friday by United States authorities on charges of violating the national prohibition act.

The prisoners were Arthur J. Hape and Louis King, John Miller, and his son, Jim Miller, charged in two cases each with possessing liquor and Mrs. Kate Gaddis, charged with a similar offense.

The defendants varied examining trial before Commissioner John H. Stone, the bonds of the four men being set at $200 in each case and that of the woman at $250.

ABUSED OVER LONG DISTANCE, SAYS WIFE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 11.—Declaring she was subject to long distance cursing, which caused her mental anguish, Mrs. Irene Caruso filed suit for separate maintenance against Alex Caruso of San Pedro.

It was while she was in San Francisco that Mrs. Caruso alleged her husband called her on the telephone from the harbor, abused her verbally and threatened to "cut her up" if she didn't come home at once.

But the defendant did not confine himself to long distance cursing, but abused his wife to her face and several times threatened her life, according to the complaint, which was filed through Attorney Philip Cohen.

Deaths that give light are worn in the hair by Mexicans and Brazilians.

Divorce Increase in Six Years 35%, Marriage 7%

Failure of Modern Religion And Education Responsible for Condition, Says Judge Ben Lindsay

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The census bureau is increasingly becoming a country of common divorce, first returns of the marriage and divorce census taken last year by the bureau of census reveal.

Complete returns from 21 states show an increase of 35 per cent in the number of divorces registered in 1932 as compared with divorces in 1916, the year of the last similar census taken by the bureau.

At the same time in the same 21 states marriages have increased only seven per cent.

Marriage Increase Slight

The total number of marriages recorded in 1932 in these states was 115,838; in 1916, 418,620. The increase noted is slight and officials credit it to the population increase in the six years intervening between the two censuses.

The number of divorces registered in 1932 in these states totaled 61,073 compared with 45,181 in 1916. This increase is held to be all out of proportion to population increase in the number of marriages and is held to be a reflection of the spread of divorce among all classes.

The rate of divorce in these 21 states jumped from one divorce to 322 marriages in 1916, to one divorce to 72 marriages in 1932.

Only three states out of 21 for the large increase in divorces showed decreases in divorce. They are New Hampshire, Vermont and North Dakota.

Texas Not On List

Eight states show increases in divorces, Delaware, Vermont, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Nebraska, North Dakota and Iowa.

These states reported increased divorces, Delaware, Connecticut, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Minnesota, Wyoming, North Carolina, Washington, Oregon, Iowa, Illinois, Ohio, California, Tennessee, Georgia and Kentucky.

Thirteen states report increased marriages, New Hampshire, Minnesota, Wyoming, North Carolina, Washington, Oregon, Iowa, Illinois, Ohio, California, Tennessee, Georgia and Kentucky.

DENVER, Sept. 11.—A new standard of relationship is being established by unmarried couples, Judge Ben Lindsay, famous juvenile court justice of Denver, declared today.

Commenting upon national census figures showing a large increase in the number of divorces in the United States and figures for Denver showing one divorce to every two and one-half marriages, Lindsay said:

"Court figures on divorces do not tell the whole story. Separations are increasing with divorces. The two combined now nearly equal marriages in many large cities of the country."

Says Education Failure

"Failure of modern religion and education are responsible for the condition. The church has lost its grip because of the church itself. Our system of education is wholly inadequate to meet the new conditions of life and it is becoming more and more a monumental failure, compared with what it ought to be."

Lindsay said he knew in Denver of many young unmarried couples living together.

By justifying themselves in the practice, they are gradually creating a new standard of relationship," the judge continued.

"I cannot say it is right. I am merely speaking of what is. What is right and what is wrong, must in a large measure, be left to time."

New York's Record

The judge referred to printed reports that 50,000 single girls in New York City alone are being supported by wealthy men, not their husbands.

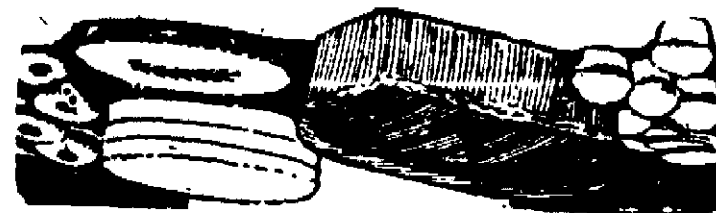

"The only remedy for such conditions," he said, "is more real religion, proper education, an improvement of economic conditions; more understanding of the real substance of marriage, rather than the mere ceremony."

"The modern tendency to pleasure and to have a good time, rather than attending to the serious responsibilities of life imposed by domestic relations and children, is the controlling factor in the actions of too many present day girls."

"I know a secret," screamed Chatterbox.

"Here comes Chatterbox Magpie," said Mrs. Golden Eagle, the cowboy fairy, to the Twins. "He must have some important news from the way he's hurrying."

"I know a secret," screamed Chatterbox, as he settled on a nearby branch and fanned his wings to steady himself. "I was away up on a high cliff just now above the place Mrs. Golden Eagle has her nest. And I heard her say, 'What would you like to have today for your supper, dearies, a nice fat one, hen, or a cotton-tail, of a prairie dog?'"

"And all the little eagles called out, 'Bring us a jack-rabbit, Ma'am, it's bigger.'"

"And Mrs. Eagle said, 'All right, darlings, you shall have it. I know just where to get a fine one, for I saw Johnny Jack's mother and daddy go out not more than half an hour ago.'"

"That's all I heard," panted Chatterbox Magpie, "and I came to tell you at once because Johnny Jack's rabbit is all alone."

"You did exactly right," said Mrs. Golden Eagle, "but there isn't a moment to lose. Come on, Twins, jump on your ponies and we'll ride down to the place Johnny Jack lives and save him."

So Naney and Nuk and the fairy-man jumped on their horses and clattered away.

Johnny Jack was out playing in some willow bushes beside a ditch. But he got hungry after a while and decided to hunt for a patch of sweet grass.

Scarcely had he stuck his head out in the open when swoop—there was a rushing of wings and down came Mrs. Eagle. She made a grab for Johnny Jack and got him.

At the same second a rope whizzed through the air and caught Mrs. Eagle round the neck.

"You let go and I'll let go," called Mister Gallip sharply.

It didn't take Mrs. Eagle long to make up her mind. She let Johnny Jack drop in a hurry.

WORLD'S COTTON SUPPLY SHORT

Pink Pup Puzzles, People Pause, Wonder

Two Million Bales Less Than 1922

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The world's cotton supply on August 1 showed a decrease of two million bales over the same time last year, the commerce department disclosed today.

The world supply on Aug. 1 was 27,508,000 bales compared with 29,002,000 last year.

Consumption since Aug. 1, 1922, was 29,950,000 bales, an increase of 200,000 bales for the period.

On Aug. 1 this year, stock on hand totaled 6,400,000 bales, a decrease of more than 3,000,000 bales.

Production totaled 1,740,000 as compared with 14,711,000 last year.

These figures were based upon a world survey of cotton made by the commerce department in conjunction with the agricultural department.

CLARENDON, Sept. 11.—A pink dog of the very pinkest sort of pink, made his appearance on the streets of Clarendon early this week. A number of people who saw the strikingly colored canine said nothing about his color, fearing for their reputations, until the end of the week, when cautious remarks developed the fact that others had seen the same distinctly colored doggie.

"What's the idea?" is asked.

Dogs as well as other necessities to match maddie's costume is the reply.

60 EXRANGERS GUESTS OF HONOR AT MENARD

MENARD, Texas, Sept. 11.—Sixty ex-rangers enjoyed Menard's three-day celebration given in their honor which concluded today with "Dance-devil," owned by Ed L. Mears, winning the colt race.

Foscutt, Dick Stanton, owner, and "Concho," Dick Goffey, owner, won previous races. Again on two days held the crowd to 1,500.

Dances were held each night and were well attended.

FOOD ON DINER CAN'T BE JUDGED BY BOARD

AUSTIN, Sept. 11.—In an opinion to the railroad commission the attorney general's department held the commission without authority to determine whether or not unwholesome foods are sold by dining cars on railroad trains.

The opinion held that such authority is vested in the state health officer.

In another opinion the attorney general's department held that counties have authority to purchase automobiles for sheriffs, but that expenses for upkeep of such motor vehicles must be borne by sheriffs in counties of less than 25,000 population.

SAYS GOOD PREACHER NEEDS GRACE AND GRIT

STONY BROOK, L. I., Sept. 11.—"Grace, grit and gumption" are the basic qualities of a good preacher, Dr. Willie Blue, pastor of the May Street Presbyterian church, Belfast, Ireland, told an audience of about 100, mainly clergymen, at the Bible conference here. Such a man, said Dr. Blue, is a teller of good news, a sower of redemption and a bearer of the word of the cross.
